History of Bohemian Hall and Beer Garden

In the late 1800's, many Czechs (Bohemians) and Slovaks fled the oppression of Austria-Hungary and made their way to America. Many such people found a home in Astoria, Queens. In 1894, the Bohemian Citizens' Benevolent Society of Astoria was formed, named after the medieval Kingdom of Bohemia in the Holy Roman Empire. The Society began raising funds for a home for the Czech people in our community. It was to be a haven where the traditions of the homeland would be maintained.

Two adjacent lots, part of a farm, were purchased on October 1, 1910 and the cornerstone of Bohemian Hall was laid. Older people of the Society remember hearing stories of raising funds at a penny a brick! Members who were masons, plumbers and electricians volunteered their services to build Bohemian Hall. These men transformed a patch of Long Island farmland into an authentic European Beer Garden.

Bohemian Hall was actually built in three sections. What is today the entrance, was the first Hall. It soon became obvious that more space was needed. In 1919, the Main Hall, currently known as Josef Voves Hall, was added. The outside Bar and Garden were also completed the same year. As fate would have it, Bohemian Hall & Beer Garden was finished just in time for prohibition, which banned the sale of alcoholic beverages in America for over a decade! Despite prohibition, Bohemian Hall & Beer Garden survived. At one time, there were three beer gardens in Astoria and over 800 beer gardens in New York City. Only Bohemian Hall survives to carry this proud tradition into the next century.

About the Performers

Pajtáši

A Slovak folk acoustic band, founded in New York City in 1998-99, when two former colleagues, folk musicians from Slovakia, met at the Slovak street festival in Manhattan. Andrea Levrinc – Valcuha on a viola-contralto/violin and Brano Brinarsky on a bass/bandleader. At that time, they were also joined by Maros Kocerha on accordion/later on cimbalom and by the vocalist, Maria Lazurova -Dvořák and later, by the accordionist, Michal Salak. In 2007, Pajtáši released their CD, “The Devil’s Craft”. Since its inception, the band has been performing with the prominent Slovak-American dance ensemble Limbora, in NYC. For the past few years, a new generation of very talented young musicians have joined the band, Isabella Valcuha and Stefan Valcuha Jr., both on violins. The authentic sound of the folk instruments and folk music, continues to enrich the traditional folk dance performances.

Jozef Dodo Ivaška

Singer from Slovakia

Jozef Ivaška is a Slovak opera tenor singer. His first major role was Vašek in Smetana’s Bartered Bride in the State Opera in Banska Bystrica. Following his debut, he sang opera in different roles (e.g. Pedrillo in Abduction from Seraglio, Jan Janecky in Beggar Student, Freddy in My Fair Lady etc.) Jozef performed in a number of Opera houses, such as Grosses Festspielhaus in Salzburg, Jugenstiltheater in Vienna, the Amato Opera in New York and the State Opera in Banska Bystrica. He sang regularly at the Isny Opera Festival in Isny, Germany. Jozef is also well known for performing for our Czech and Slovak community all around the world with his father Jozef Senior.
